New homes going up on Centennial Drive

Four custom homes are currently under construction in Elk Point's new subdivision and local builder Shane Germain said he "jumped in without the streets and services" to get the homes on stream for eager buyers. Germain has been "going full swing since February" on the project and currently has two houses well underway and basements dug for two more. He purchased all eight lots on the south and west sides of Phase 1 and plans to build homes ranging from 1,278 to 1,560 square feet.

Quilt exhibit a big part of horticulture, craft show

By VICKI BROOKER
Staff Writer

"Quilts are starting to roll in," says Verona Lea Flanders, who spearheads the quilt exhibition held annually along with the Elk Point Agricultural Society's horticulture and craft show.

Because "a lot of people don't decide until the last minute" to show their quilts and quilted items, Flanders never knows ahead of time exactly how many items will make up the display, "but we always get more than I had expected. It should be good."

The quilts will be on display to the public at the A. G. Ross Arena on Sunday, Aug. 12 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and spectators will have the opportunity not only to admire the artistry on display, but also to cast votes for their favourite large and small quilted items, with prizes going to the creators or owners of the most popular quilts.

Champion Sox alumni still right on the ball

Former Midget Provincial winners come home to give Cards some competition

By DOUG BASSETT

Review Sports

It's funny how time flies by when you're having fun. Seems like only yesterday that these guys played together, yet it's been four years already. July 20, 2003 to be exact, their final game together, winning the provincial gold medal over Standard. I remember it very well, not just because it was my son's 22nd birthday, but it's like one of those things like Black Friday, something you'll never forget, only this was in a good way.

This past Wednesday the Senior Sox alumni took to the diamond for the first time again against the Cold Lake Cardinals, in what turned out to be a very entertaining game, in fact we should have been selling 50/50s because the crowd actually filled the stands. "Mylo" Myles Quinney was on the hill to start for the Sox and Sean Joly for the Cards, dueling it out for the first two innings, the Cards' assistant coach Tyler Loughran playing in this game and pushing one across in on a overthrow to third. The Sox weren't looking too good at this point, going down one, two, three for the first three innings.

Finally the old boys managed to put two runs across in the fourth, Nicky "Fish hook" Myshaniuk now chucking for the Sox and "Little M" Ryan MacDonald on the mound for the Cards. Kurt "the Wall" Kozicky played some solid defense on first base with a deep RBI triple in the fifth giving the Sox a two-run lead. In the bottom of the sixth, the Sox were leading and finally starting to tap the little ball, adding four runs. Sox closer Mark "the Marksman" Letestu fired some serious heat and the Cards were unable to catch up to his speed, the "Marksman" shutting the door.

Kevin "Iceman" Moneta contributed two singles, Curtis "Baby Ruth" Croteau and "Mylo" Quinney each hitting a single. Back catcher Chris Looy still has a great arm when tested, picking off two guys trying to steal second, with Lee "Bobo" Letestu making the tag. Most of these guys have played slow pitch or modified fastball where the bases are 60 feet apart, not 90 feet. John Buryn on third base made some key plays, adjusting well to the 187-foot throw to first. The Sox win this one 7 to 1.

This is the first time the old boys have actually played some serious baseball since 2003, and now that they have a taste of it, wouldn't you know, they want some more. The next matchup is slated to go on Sunday, Aug. 12 at Bassett Field, a double header this time. Come out and join in the fun.

Remember their glory days? The Sox still have what it takes to play very competitive baseball and were happy to be reunited at Bassett Field where they took on the Cold Lake Cardinals last Wednesday evening.

Frog Lake murder suspect pleads guilty

By JANANI WHITFIELD
Staff Writer

A 19-year-old male has received six years in prison after pleading guilty to manslaughter in the murder of a Frog Lake man.

Aaron Evan Smith, 19, pled guilty to manslaughter on July 19 at St. Paul provincial court. As part of his sentencing, Smith will have to provide a sample of his DNA to police and will face a lifetime weapons prohibition. He will not be eligible for parole until half his sentence is served, said Jeff Rudiak, chief crown prosecutor.

"I think it was a fit and appropriate sentence," said Rudiak.

Seven people from Frog Lake were initially charged with first-degree murder in the death of 38-year-old Rocky Moyah, whose body was discovered on May 5, 2006 in Frog Lake. An autopsy revealed Moyah, an oil-field maintenance worker and father of four, died from blunt force trauma.

The ages of the accused, all from Frog Lake, ran from 12 to 18 at the time of the murder.

The other adult charged in the case, 20-year-old William Berland, will go to trial on Feb. 25 to 29, 2008.

Another youth, 17, will face trial from Feb. 4 to 15, 2008, on first-degree murder charges.

Two of the youths, aged 15 and 17, pled guilty to manslaughter. One was sentenced to three years in prison, while the other is due to be sentenced on Aug. 8.

The two youngest boys charged, both aged 12 at the time of the crime, pled guilty to common assault and have since received probation.

COMMITTEES OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

Your Input is Important

Beverage Container Recycling Regulation Inquiry

The Legislative Assembly's all-party Standing Committee on Resources and Environment is inviting public input on issues surrounding the Beverage Container Recycling Regulation. These issues include:

Beverage Container Collection System: is the number of existing bottle depots in Alberta sufficient? Should additional collection options be considered?

Exemption of Milk Containers: should milk containers be included in the deposit refund system?

Deposit Levels: should the existing deposit levels be raised? Should there be only one deposit level for all containers? Should large or oversize containers (i.e. 15-litre water bottles) have a much higher deposit level?

Unredeemed Deposits: should management of these unredeemed deposits be transferred from the manufacturer to the Delegated Administrative Organization (currently the Beverage Container Management Board), or should manufacturers continue to manage these funds? Should the regulation stipulate how these deposits may be used?

Service Quality: what direction should be given to the Delegated Administrative Organization respecting the administration of standards included in the bylaws? Should there be a specific enforcement clause to deal with service quality?

Two Common Collection Agents: Should the number of common collection agents required be a business decision handled in the bylaws and not prescribed in the Regulation?

Other issues that may arise

DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSIONS IS AUGUST 24, 2007

Horticulture, crafts in this weekend's spotlight

By DONNA BASSETT

Elk Point Agricultural Society

In the past week, two different people have told me about their bumper crop of Evans cherries. Others have related how big their rhubarb is.

Meanwhile, my Evans cherry tree is still a runt and for some reason it's bushing out all over. It has eight little cherries on its south-facing branches and none anywhere else.

My rhubarb is pathetic and seems to be going the way of the first rhubarb that died the other year. Who knew you can kill rhubarb? I know, I know, you can't kill rhubarb. But apparently I can and have and also the peony too. Yes, the peony died as well.

But, the poppies are doing great. Too bad I can't enter them in the Horticulture Show this coming weekend. Maybe, the raspberry jam though—that turned out great and I'm still picking berries every day.

Entries for the annual Horticulture and Craft Show will be received at the A. G. Ross Arena on Saturday, August 11 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and will be ready for viewing by the public on Sunday, August 12 from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m.

The booklets and entry tags are available at RONA (Cal's Hardware) and at the Elk Point Review office.

There are categories for knitters, sewers, quilters, crafters, bakers, and canners. The green thumbs should be well represented again this year and new to the show will be wine making, beer making and a special section for yard art.

If you have a flair for writing, there is a Creative Writing section and, for those who like to see life through a viewfinder, there is a section on photography as well.

The seniors have their own section as well.

A popular section is the Junior Fair, dedicated to youngsters under 17. First, second, and third place ribbons are awarded in each category, as well as cash prizes. It is so much fun to see the kids' faces on Sunday when they see a ribbon attached to their entry and they get some money for their efforts.

Actually, it's a thrill to see the adults' faces light up when they see their skills rewarded with ribbons and money. Bragging rights for the next 12 months are theirs.

So, dig through your crafts, shine up your jars of jams and jellies, put a label on that bottle of wine or beer and bring them down to the arena on Saturday. You can't win a prize if you don't enter.

If you're still unsure about entering, come on in on Sunday and take a look around. You just might get the bug to enter in future horticulture and craft shows.

Come to the fair!

It's called the Quilt Exhibition, Horticulture and Craft Show now, but this coming weekend's display of the best from area gardens, fields, orchards, cameras, craft rooms and quilting frames has all the features we knew and loved as the Elk Point Fair, but with a new-last-year name that better expresses the scope of the event.

The quilt show has become a major attraction, with more and more talent on display each year. The horticultural aspect should be especially good this year, as hot weather has brought vegetables and fruits to harvest stage, and the crafts just keep getting better and better.

See you at the fair.exhibition/show!

WAY BACK WHEN...

Bicentennial, Baker Memorial, budget

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE ELK POINT REVIEW AND THE LAKELAND REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF AUGUST 7 IN...

1987

Development of camping facilities at Whitney Lake "on an immediate scale" was pledged by Recreation and Parks Minister Norm Weiss, who apologized for the government not living up to their commitment to install the facilities as part of the provincial park development. Elk Point race-walker Janice McCaffrey was named part of the Canadian team going to the World Track and Field Championships in Rome, Italy.

1992

What a weekend! The Bicentennial celebrations for Fort George and Buckingham House were an enormous success, with over 500 descendants of explorer and fort builder Peter Fidler among the huge crowd that attended a weekend that included the arrival of commemorative mail by wagon train, a midway, a buffalo barbecue, a huge artisans' fair, a dance with music by Danny Hooper and Calvin Vollrath, and a black powder competition put on by the Edmonton House Brigade, who set up their old-style camp at the forts.

1997

Ashley Larson and Terrie Kromeny were the first to have their names inscribed on the Charlene Baker Memorial plaque after their all-around wins in the junior and senior categories at the Elk Point Agricultural Society's annual horse show. Plans for another pipeline which would cross the Lindbergh and Ferguson Flats areas were unveiled by Imperial Oil at an open house at the Elk Point Seniors' Recreation Centre.

2002

The Lakeland Regional Health Authority decided to submit another deficit budget to the province instead of closing facilities, with LRHA chair Ernie Isley estimating "we have a 50-50 chance" of having the budget approved. Elk Point volunteer firefighters practiced their skills in an exercise aimed at getting victims out of a wreck safely.

Things to do this summer

This summer I have noticed an ad on television that is encouraging the people of Alberta to visit museums in Alberta. In checking the Internet under museums in Alberta, all you have to do is to check the location you are interested in and a listing of museums will be given.

Since we all know what is around this area, I thought I would check out Edmonton. The following came up: Telephone Historical Centre, Alberta Aviation Museum, Edmonton Police Museum and Archives, Strathcona Museum and Archives (Sherwood Park), Alberta Railway Museum, Loyal Edmonton Regiment Museum, The Royal Alberta Museum, Edmonton Public Schools Archives and Museum, C & E (1891) Railway Museum, John Walter Museum, Dinosaur Adventure (Dinosaur Walk Museum), and the Ukrainian Canadian Archives and Museum of Alberta.

If museums are on your "someday" list, maybe you would be able to check out some of the other activities that occur in Edmonton. For example at William Hawrelak Park over the first weekend in August (August 4, 5, 6, 2007), the Edmonton Heritage Festival occurred. It marked the 32nd annual show for this premier three-day showcase of Canada's vibrant multicultural heritage. They featured over 60 pavilions representing over 70 cultures from all over the world. You would have been able to sample culinary delicacies, see creative performances, shop for crafts, artwork and clothing, or chat with people eager to tell you a little about their cultural roots and their present-day communities in Canada. If you weren't able to attend this year, maybe you could plan to attend next year. Other events in Edmonton are the River City Shakespeare Festival which occurs at the Hawrelak Park outdoor amphitheatre and is the venue for the Free Will Players annual performances of the works of Shakespeare. Then there is Edmonton's folk festival which is one of the biggest in the world, averaging 20,000 spectators daily. After the folk festival for 10 days in August, Edmonton has its own world-renowned fringe theatre festival. The fringe theatre movement began in Edinburgh and quickly spread to Canada, Edmonton was the first to get underway in 1982 and it is still the largest. It runs for 10 days starting in the third week of Augusts.

Outside of festivals, there are places you can visit anytime, Fort Edmonton Park, where you can explore Edmonton's beginnings as a fur trading post, is Canada's largest living museum. Walk around re-creations of life in Edmonton in 1846, 1885, 1905 and during the Depression. Learn how a beaver hat is made, see the way children lived on the homestead, etc. After your visit there, another interesting place is the Muttart Conservatory. They have over 700 varieties of plants from three very different climates on display: arid, temperate and tropical species.

So just because it is now August and you are not sure what to do with your last days of holidays, it just might be a good opportunity to go not so very far away and spend some time really exploring what is available in our nearest city - the city of Edmonton. Happy exploring, everyone!

Whoops! Guess what? I can't forget all the sports events that you probably already go to. Yes, there are the Edmonton Eskimos football games, and of course, there are the great events at the Jubilee Auditorium, the Winspear and the Mayfield Dinner Theatre. So the bottom line: there really is a lot to choose from in "the city" - Edmonton. Have fun, everyone, regardless of what you have chosen to do.

ELK POINT CENTENNIAL QUESTION OF THE WEEK

A break with tradition: Elk Point's first August fair

When Elk Point's first agricultural society was formed in 1912, the residents of the five-year-old community chose Wednesday, September 25 as the date of their First Annual Exhibition. The following year, it moved up a week to Wednesday, September 17, a date which remained for the next two years, the fifth annual fair moving up only one day to September 16. The next year, they held their fair on Friday and Saturday of the first full week of September.

The effects of a terrible flu epidemic and World War 1 put an end to the fair, and there were no agricultural fairs recorded again until a second agricultural society was formed in 1971 for the purpose of building an arena. They held their first fair in the new structure in September 1974, following the long-ago tradition, and stayed with that date in 1975 and 1976.

These fairs got off to a small but enthusiastic start, but what really gave the annual event a boost was the move to an earlier date. The 1977 fair was held August 18 and 19, and "attracted more exhibits than usual indoors and expanded its activities to the outdoors as well," according to what appears to have been news coverage of the event, included in the Supplement to Reflections. A second report by Edith Mitchell states that, "the number of possible entries increased from 200 to 269, and the amount of prize money paid out almost doubled" to a grand total of $559.50. Mitchell said the change of date to mid-August meant that they avoided the early frosts, and that, too, may have increased entries.

"The floral exhibits were vivid and eye-catching, the arrangements just beautiful. The unexpectedly pleasant weather during Fair week produced gorgeous flowers for cut bouquets and corsages as well as many fine specimens in the vegetable categories," according to the news coverage. "With the cool summer and late ripening of fruit, there were many entries of raspberries, strawberries and apples." Hay and grain categories drew more entries than previous fairs and "the fine bales and small sheaves of barley and wheat were both interesting and attractive additions."

Stay cool with a book

By NICOLE KALYNCHUK
Elk Point Public Library

Thanks to some very generous people, we have received many donated books which are in very good condition. These books range in category from romance to horror and general fiction to science fiction. The titles of some of our most popular donated books are Killer Dreams, Mad River Road and Memory in Death.

We have also ordered in many new adult books, like Telegraph Days, Hot Stuff and Orchard of Hope. Some of the new children's books we've gotten in are; How Animals Eat, Beware Pirates and Clifford's Funny Adventure. Come down to the library today and check them out!

The summer is half way done, but it's still not too late to sign up for the Summer Reading Program. So far we have made many crafts, which include things like paper plate masks and collages, and water bottle animals. The kids also have fun running around outside and playing games such as tag and Duck, Duck, Goose! The program is a really great experience for kids of all ages.

And don't forget about Thursday, Aug. 9, children's entertainer Brian Lehr will be coming to the library at 10 a.m. for a fun-filled presentation for the kids. They will learn about magic, secret agents and more. The presentation is for kids of all ages, and the parents are welcome to stay as well.

Thank You

I would like to thank all of my clients for their patronage.

Fair

A pet show for pre-schoolers and games of skill conducted by 4-H members were also part of the indoor activities, while outdoors, spectators enjoyed a gymkhana, horse pull and machinery displays.

One or two more fairs were held in the arena before the bench show moved to the Elks Hall, where it remained in mid-August. The fair moved back to the arena in 1997, allowing ample room for not only exhibits but also to add a display of quilts to the always-successful event. Other display were added from time to time, but the outdoor attractions ended when the fair moved to the hall, and to date, have not been revived.

And now for the K.A. Campbell quote of the week: "I believe in rules. I also believe I have the right to test the rules by seeing how far they can be bent." Last week's answer to: "If you're in professional sports, buddy, and you don't care whether you win or lose; you are going to finish last. Because that's where those guys finish, they finish last." - Leo Durocher
